Reservation

Reservation / “48 hours advanced notice”

Before hunters check into an area it is mandatory to set up a Reservation/Advanced notification.

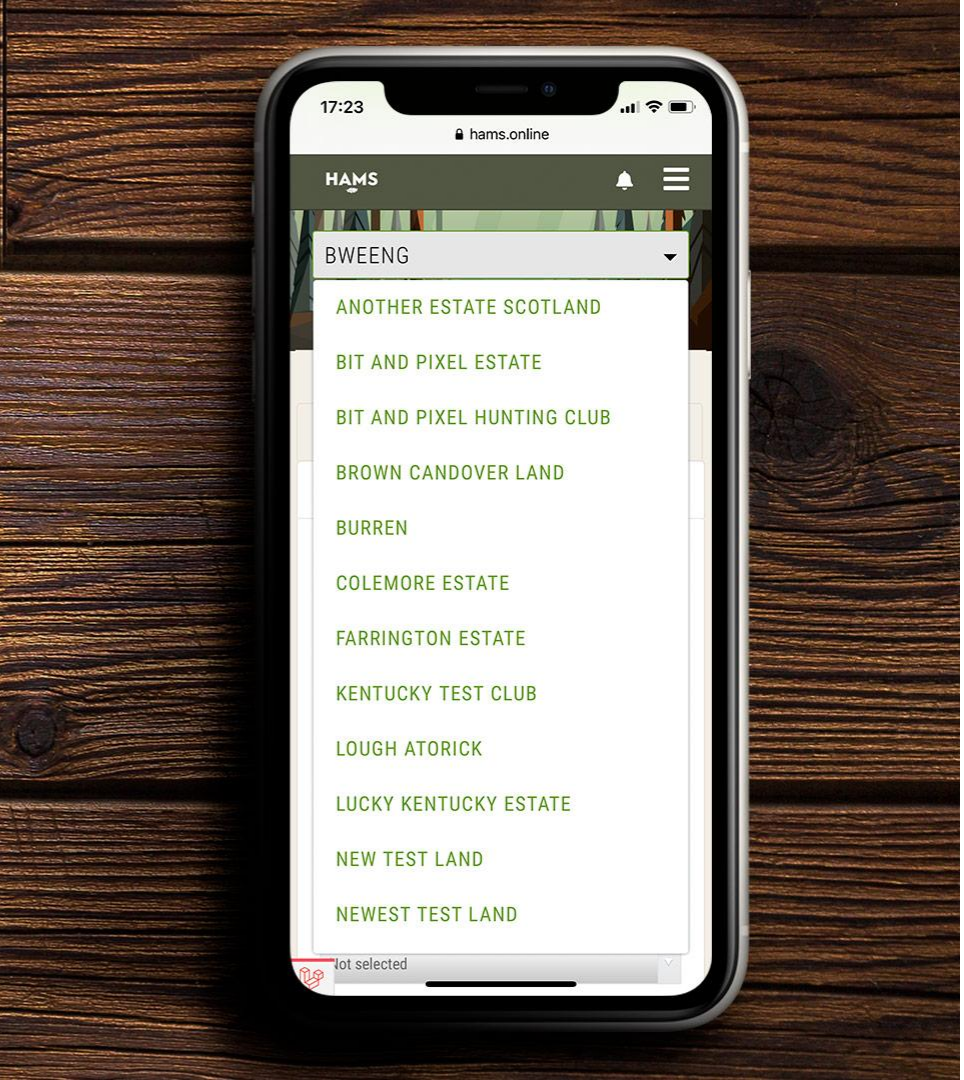
Reservation has to be set up in advance 2 days (48 hours) before the planned event. Reservation settings may vary in different forests, but the default setting is:

- Reservation must be made minimum 48 hours before the planned Check in,
- The length of a Reservation is 7 days max.

While you have a valid reservation you can check in and out as many times as you wish.

By using Reservations you can plan and review your whole season and land use with the help of HAMS.online’s Reservation calendar view. Also, Reservations help Forest managers and BAU admins to get a clear view on the land use plans of licence holders.

You cannot check in without having a Reservation.



Select a forest to make reservation and check in

You and your guest must have a Reservation for the period of time when they or you want to check in.

You have 2 options to check in:

- from the Land occupancy view
- from the Dashboard or from the Check-in list

In all cases the first step is to select the forest your licence belongs to and where you want to check in.

How to make a Reservation

There are number of ways to create a Reservation in the system.

When you don't have a reservation in place all Check in buttons are replaced with Reservation buttons.

Reservation can be created on:

- Dashboard // Phone on the left
- On the Reservation page (Menu > Event > Check-ins > Reservations tab) // Phone in the middle
- Reservation calendar page (Menu > Event > Check-ins > Reservations Calendar tab) // Phone on the right

How to add a Report

A successful cull is known as a “successful harvest” in HAMS.online.

Every hunter has to make their own Reports and check out.

Multiple reports can belong to a check in, every culled deer has to be reported in separate reports. Multiple small game culls can be reported in one report separated by species.

Important notice: Although you can check in a guest, or hunter you won’t be able to do the report and checkout for them.

By hitting the Add report button the Reporting interface opens. Fill in the form. Checking out requires at least one report, if you did not cull anything set the outcome to “Nothing happened”.

“The HAMS online system is a great tool to bring together several manual processes into one easy to use system. Collecting and reporting accurate data is crucial to all land management roles especially with the current scrutiny we are under from a wide variety of stakeholders. As well as making life easier for our members the HAMS system offers evidence of best practice and enhances the duty of care to guests, visitors and colleagues when working in remote areas. After using the system for a few weeks, territory and game management actually become enjoyable tasks with trends and anomalies becoming easily identifiable.”
